"Where did you get him?" "Well, I don't mind telling you that I adopted him one evening last week. I was walking up North Pearl street with A. when the puppy came out of one of the hallways and ran toward us eager to play. She dared me to pick it up and take it home, and I would not be dared. I lifted the little love and placed him inside this big muff, and, feeling decidedly guilty, we both hurrled uptown. When near Orange street we heard footsteps behind us and turned to see a man running toward us. Instinctively we grabbed our skirts and increased our speed, and I tell you we were greatly relieved when the man behind boarded a motor car, which proved to be the object of his hurry. I have grown attached to Fido, but I wouldn't want to go through that experience again for the whole world."

This was a conversation I overheard on a trolley car the other evening, which proves that other things besides dainty hands can be concealed first lientenant. -Albany Journal

Profits In Pecan Raising. Some of the fluest pecans in the world are said to be raised in Florida, where the industry is becoming important. A long time, eleven years, is required for a pecan grove to come to maturity, so that it requires patience to wait for the profits, but there are records of single trees yielding as much as $16 worth of nuts in a single senson. In Jacksonville twenty-six trees lining an avenue vielded 800 pounds of nuts that sold for $160 in cash. And at the same time the trees adorned the avenue and added greatly to its attractiveness. - Jacksonville

Much damp, soft corn remains in the hand of farmers and opinion is freely expressed that considerable damage will ensue when the weather moderates. Cars are scarce for moving the grain, and in some instances it is spoiling in elevators. A matter of concern in many localities is vital seed for planting. Much of the grain was immature before garnering and experiment has shown that reliable seed will not be plentiful.

Meadows and pastures are well preserved in the northern district, and in portions of the central district, but the outlook is not promising in the southern tier of counties. In the latter locality young clover and timothy have been injured by alternate freezing and thawing and some old meadows have been killed

> The Mule Warned the Miners. The mine mule knows a thing or two quite as well as does the army mule, snys Frank Leslie's Weekly. In one of the mines in the Pittsburg district an ever patient mule provéd himself possessed of an almost human sense of coming danger. A chamber had been closed on account of gas, and the men were thinking of what that might mean when suddenly there came a clatter of hoofs, and a mule appeared, its long ears quivering and its intelligent eyes full of terror.

It gave a shrill bray and then was gone down the entry, broken traces:flying after it. The men, with one impulse dropping picks, made a headlong dash for the open air. With scared faces other miners joined, and while they were wondering what it all meant a dull, deep explosion went rumbling through the hollow back of them, followed by wave on wave of noxious vapors. When the bodies of the few poor men who had been hopelessly entrapped were recovered another was tenderly carried out with theirs, that of the little gray mule that sounded the warning.

Chicago, March 1.—Wheat—Throughout the session the sentiment was extremely hearish and there was constant liquidation. Lower foreign markets chused weak opening, May being 14012 lower, at $1.000 11.002; July down 3.002 to 14.0136, at 93 to 934c. New York, March 1.—The movement of to day's stock market was somewhat more consistent than that of yesterday, in that prices, were above yesterday's low level throughout the day, but the character of the char the market was not essentially changed.

for the last four years and the movement of prices was so narrow and sluggish as to be almost imperceptible. The news of the day offered various unfavorable features and the fact that these unfavorable factors failed to depress prices was the subtle reason for the advance. Closing

D. D. D. SPECIAL OFFER

REGARDING diseases of the skin.

We have lately secured the agency for this city and vicinity of a preparation which is reliable and certain in clearing away troubles of the skin. Many forms of skin affections, which have been considered incurable are conquered by this medcament as easily as a cough is stoppedby the proper soothing and healing influe nces. This preparation is now in use among skin specialists, and many large hospitals have adopted it for eczema and kindred cases. It stands among the most useful medical agents now known.

We have evidence of its work to show which will interest and sufferer. Call and investigate same. Since we have been handling the remedy-known as D. D. D. tis work proves so effective we guarantee its efficacy. In all cases of skin affection we will refund the price of a bottle ($1) if the sufferer does not consider it literally a Godnend after trying. It is curing the worst kind of cases every day. It seems a pity any one should suffer the toruture of skin troubles when so dependable a curative agent can be had so cheaply.

HOME MARKETS. There is little doing in the local ivestock market at present. Of the Chicago livestock market, Oliver S. Green, with Shannon Bros. & Co., Union Stock Yards, Chicago, reports for Monday, Feb. 29:

Cattle-Receipts, 24,000. The bulk sold at active to 10c higher prices. No extra fancy reached here and best only reached $5.85; but not nearly as ine as the 6c cattle last week. A good demand from exporters and that helped prices on cattle selling at $4.65 to $5,25; butcher stuff, firm; stockers and feeders, firm.

Hogs-Receipts, 30,000. The war feeling was not in evidence in this market and prices were 15 to 20c lower than best prices Friday. The top of the market was $5.65. The sharp break in provisions helped to depress the hog market.

Sheep Receipts, 40,000. General market was 10c lower with lambs 15 to 25c lower.

POULTRY. Prices quoted by commission men:

Hens and pullets, 9c lb. Stags, 6c lb. Old roosters, 31/2c lb. Geese, Sc 1b. Ducks, &c lb. Hen fürkeys, 12c lb. Young toms, 12e lb. Old toms, 11e lb. Eggs, 12½ to 15c doz. Butter, 121/2@150 lb. .

THE WHITE CROSS

Sould oue said that John Militane was the larlest man the Connembra. Others called him a surly dog, but I niways liked him. He had met with Haluele and had lost his heart. "A bank holding his little money had fulled, the crops had falled, too; his instible had died-everything had gone badly with him. To make matters worse he was to be turned out of his farm, had quarreled with his landlord, my friend, Shane Desmond, who in those days was always at war with his tenants. Here, I thought, were the makings of n tragedy-a lawless district, an unruly peasantry and a hated landlord. In November, when the days grew short and the nights dark, there was a minor in the shebeen near Leenaue that some of "the boys" were coming from Desmond's estate in Claire. A fishing bout would bring them to the Killeries and take them back without any one being the wiser, and their trip might mend matters. One bolsterous evening Murnane was standing at his window watching his wife trudging heavily up the mountain road, He had spent hours that day at the shebeen. As he watched his wife he thought in a muddling way how pretty she was when she was young though now she was a plain little wo-

He thought of the time when he first caught her in his arms down you-Bobby had seen only straight limbed der where the Owen-Erriff runs by the youngsters before this, though he was Devil's Mother mountain." "I love ye, familiar, it seemed, with some other Molly Joyce. Tell me, now, are ye ills that flesh is heir to. As Bobby's listenin' to me, mayourneen dheelish?

Though he knew that she was a kind little woman and that she loved blin like a dog, he had grown hard and cold With her! Only that evening he had told her roughly to stop making a linre of Berself, moping and poking about doing nothing, and to get out of that and spend the night at her father's, and sho, knowing the little use of speaking to him, had gone silently.

Then be walked up and down bis cabin. It looked wretched? The turk fire on the bearth had smoldered. The whitewashed walls were blackened by smoke. They had little on them but h bik crucifix. There was little furniture left. He remembered it bright and homelike. Now it would be unroofed. He would be penniless unless Desmond was shot that night.

For the boat had come from Lescan nor, and when Desmond drove back from Carrain "the boys" were to wait for him on the lower road. If he came by the upper road, Murnane would see him and was to put a light in his window. Then they would change their ambush.

Murnane's thoughts were not clear. He kept thinking over and over again, Sure 'twas no harm lighting a candle; twas no business of his whatever the boys below might do. The black crucifix on the wall opposite was shown plainly by the moonlight. The face of its figure was bent forward as if watching him. He could not bear it. Placing a beach under, he reached to the nail at the top and wrenched it out

The moon was covered. The cross leaned forward in the darkness. He turned his head away to shun the bent face and, groping, tugged out the nail at the foot. The cross seemed as heavy as lead. He dared not look. Placing it in the corner face downward, he covered it with a cloth."

Then he stood again at the window. The moon shone out, and the wind lurched drunkenly against the door. There Was a stain of rust on his right hand, and nounced yet, has it?" blood; rubbed it, but it was dry; felt as if a curse had fallen on him. Then came a pause between the gusts, and he heard the ring of boofs. At once he turned back to light the candle, took it with a shaky hand, then on the wall where the cross had been saw a dazzling white cross.

He staggered, with his eyes fixed on it. It was a miracle, a last warning. He dashed the candle on the ground and crunched it under foot into the earthen floor. The moon was drowned by the clouds and left the cabin pitch dark. The wind crashed against the door again. He unlatched the door. It was dashed open. He could not Breathe; tried to pull it to after him, but could not. Some unseen bund beemed dragging it! The wind swirled through the cabin and flung the cloth from the prostrate crucing. The next morning was calm, with a stainless sky. Molly came trudging down the mountain road from her father's furni. All that night she had been crying and praying. As she reached the door of the cabin she saw her man sitting by the hearth with his hedd bent forward on his hands. The crucifix was gone.

It had been fixed there when the walls, had been shiping with fresh whitewash. Now they were blackened, but where it had hung the wall remained white in the shape of a cross. dear."—Toledo Blade.

HALL OF FAME FOR WOMEN. There being some feeling in New York that a "hall of fame" exclusivey devoted to men is unjust to women has been determined to establish sort of annex or women's hall of fame, where famous women of America shall be "Pantheoned"—if they will please excuse a word begin with "Pant." The strictest segrega-tion is to be observed, the men in one hall, the women in the other, notwith standing that, living, all men and women of intellect mingle and converse together. From earliest ages, women have been as deserving of pronze and marble memorials as the men. Some of those as far back as the age of mythology have made as much stir as Carrie Nation does now. The development of great intellectuls has not been the peculiarity of he new woman of our day. By digging around in antiquity and the cyclopedias we might name a numerous group like Hypatia capable of conducting an organization such as Sorosis, if there had been a Sorosis in Alexandria or Rome. Halls of fame could never have been rightfuly devoted to masculine glorification alone; so there is so much the less an excuse for the feminine one in New York being an afterthought. The woman's hall of fame could be filled at once, but it is a singular fact that famous American women did not begin to appear in any great number until fifty years ago, or about the time of the female emancipation novement, and that any hall of fame will be likely eventually to contain a arge proportion of spinsters, including such names as Frances E. Willard, Susan B. Anthony, Clara Barton nd Jane Addams.
